Expect Duke And Wally Here Soon

The Duke of Windsor and his American bride, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, may be the house guests of Bayard Tuckerman, prominent North Shore sportsman, on or about Thanksgiving Day, it was learned today.

London dispatches disclosed that it is the intention of the royal couple to visit the United States and that they will see "friends in New England."

Mr. Tuckerman, host to the Duke of Windsor in 1934, at his beautiful Hamilton estate, said today: "I haven't heard from the Duke yet, but naturally, if he comes to New England, he will pay me a visit. He needs no invitation. He'll just drop in."

The projected United States visit of the former King and his bride was made known after friends of the Duke and Duchess asserted that they had definite knowledge of the plans.

While there was speculation in London whether the couple planned to buy an estate in America, the prime reason for the Boston visit is to inspect the two local federal housing projects—Old Harbor Village in South Boston and Newtown Court in Cambridge.

Even as Prince of Wales and King Edward VIII, the Duke has been interested in social service work and to improve the living conditions of the working man by the clearing of slum areas.

Local officials today pointed out that the South Boston and Cambridge projects would afford him a splendid opportunity to inspect that type of housing.

MRS. IRENE BAILEY EILEEN BAILEY

Despite her insistence before Judge Dow, in Salem court, that she would rather live with her father, the order of the court turning sixteen-year-old Eileen Bailey, Ipswich high school girl, over to the custody of her mother, was no sooner signed than she rushed to the arms of her mother and the court battle for her custody was over. This exclusive Boston American photo shows her being embraced by her mother, Mrs. Irene Bailey. Story on Page 3

HUNT FOR N. Y. LIPSTICK KILLER SWINGS TO BAY STATE

Hunt for New York city's "lipstick slayer" shifted to eastern Massachusetts today when authorities learned one of the gunman's two victims had visited this city and Ashburnham in late August.

New York detectives were on their way here to question persons met by 20-year-old Frances Hays in the hope of turning up new clues in the double slaying of the girl and her young sweetheart, Lewis Weiss, July 20.

At Ashburnham, Charles Heald revealed that his wife's cousin, Nettie Burton, young New York girl, and Miss Hays visited the Heald home this summer. He said both girls made numerous acquaintances during their weeks stay in Ashburnham.

This New York authorities, it is understood, will question these recent friends of the murdered girl.

Vandenberg, Hoover Talk Richman to Fly Nonstop to Rio

DUBLIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—Harry C. Richman, chairman of the Atlantic, announced plans today for what he hopes will be the longest non-stop flight in history—from Toronto to Rio de Janeiro—some time in February.

Link P. O. Break To Quincy Boys

Trend through a piece of home-lesson paper, two Quincy high school students were taken into custody in Hamburg, N. Y., today in connection with a $50 postoffice break in Hephzibah last week.

Discipline that the boys were in custody was made by Chief Postal Inspector John J. Breslin.

The boys, Olin Blake, 17, of Granite street, Baitmore, and George White, 17, of Waterson avenue, Woburn, were reported missing last Thursday.

Reported missing at that time were two girls also high school students, but they later returned home. They were Eileen White, 15, sister of one of the boys, and Shirley Vera, 15, of Rhode street, Hough's Neck.

Hurley Asks U. S. to Probe Meat Prices

Governor Hurley today demanded a federal investigation of the "prevailing high prices for meat products in Massachusetts."

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, the Governor declared:

"I have directed the State Division on the Necessaries of Life and the Department of Labor and Industries to take drastic action to prevent any attempt to defraud the public as a result of prevailing conditions."

"In my opinion, your department is the government unit to make such a study. An aroused public opinion in my state makes imperative immediate steps to combat these increased prices for meats."

OFFER STATES AID
Governor Hurley assured Secretary Wallace that the entire facilities of any state department will be at the disposal of federal investigators.

The governor also asked that Secretary Wallace's report contain recommendations "for possible action at the same time Governor Hurley released a report from the Division on the Necessaries of Life, a copy of which was also sent to Secretary Wallace, containing the monthly percentage of increase or decrease in meat prices from March to September."

This report showed that during the months of July and August there were increases in every type of meat.

URGES SPECIAL SESSION
Earlier today, Representatives Ronald D. Sawyer of Ware urged the governor to call a special session of the Legislature to enact emergency legislation in face of the rapid increase in meat prices.

Governor Hurley, however, replied that the situation at present does not warrant "emergency legislation" but federal action.

President Hits Nazis, Japs and Italians

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—President Roosevelt today solemnly warned the nation that the world was on the brink of war, which, despite all our efforts to maintain peace, might involve the United States ultimately.

The world situation, Mr. Roosevelt said, "has now reached a stage where the very foundations of civilization are threatened."

Without calling any nation by name, the President pointed an accusing finger at Japan, Germany and Italy for the threat of another world conflagration.

The President spoke from the new Outer Link Drive bridge, which he today dedicated. His warning was carried throughout the country on a nation-wide radio hookup.

A huge crowd stretched out before him, listening intently to his words.

Mayor Edward Kelly introduced the President, after Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes had spoken briefly.

Mr. Roosevelt measured each word, his tanned face grave. He declared:

"The peace-loving nations must make a concerted effort in opposition to those violations of treaties and those ignorings of humane instincts which today are creating a state of international anarchy and instability from which there is no escape through mere isolation or neutrality."

Dark Picture of International Situation Painted by President

It was a dark picture Mr. Roosevelt painted of the international scene. He did not mention any nation by name but the implication was clear when he stated that "without declaration of war and without warning of justification of any kind, civilians, including women and children, are being ruthlessly murdered with bombs from the air."

His finger was pointed accusingly when he lamented that "in times of so-called peace, ships are being attacked and sunk by submarines without cause or notice."

Another clear indictment was discernible in his charge that "nations are fomenting and taking sides in civil warfare in nations that have never done them any harm."

"War is a contagion, whether it be declared or undeclared," he asserted gravely. "It can engulf states and people remote from the original scene of hostilities."

"We are determined to keep out of war, yet we cannot insure ourselves against the disastrous effects of war and the

Black, Roosevelt, Coughlin Targets

Radio Priest Proclaims President Stupid For Naming Senator to High Court

ROYAL OAK, Mich., Oct. 5 (NS)—Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black, President Roosevelt, the "rubber stamp" Senate, the CIO and "the fickle public" were the targets of a caustic tirade by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin.

Justice Black, the radio priest declared, should be required to wear the white hood of the Ku Klux Klan over his black judicial robes while sitting on the Supreme Court bench.

Emerging from retirement following a trip abroad, Coughlin, in no uncertain terms, commended frankly and freely on all modern day controversies.

He warned that the entrance of the Committee for Industrial Organization into politics might result in class struggles, he declared that President Roosevelt's popularity is on the wane; he could see only financial disaster ahead for the nation "under the present New Deal," he said the Republican party could hope for little in 1940; and he commented that "the fickle public might be persuaded if John F. Lewis or some other person of that type."

Calls Black Appointment Stupidity by President

That there would be no misquoting him, he asked his interviewers to submit their questions in writing and he painstakingly and deliberately dictated answers to a stenographer. Answering questions concerning Justice Black, Father Coughlin said:

"It is my hope that Justice Black lives to be ten years old and occupies the seat on the Supreme Court bench until his death. May he be a monument to the New Deal attempt to destroy the independence of the Supreme Court, to Mr. Roosevelt's personal stupidity in appointing him, and to the U. S. Senate's tendency to rubber stamp practically all the New Deal proposals."

How, he asked in view of Black's admitted oath of the Klan, can the nation believe his present oath as a Supreme Court justice?

Says Stand on Courts Cost Roosevelt Popularity

"There is no question to my mind as to whether or not President Roosevelt's popularity is falling. Thousands of persons who supported him in 1936 have signified through the mail that they regret having done so. This is attributable to his stand on the Supreme Court more than to any other tangible reason."

He recalled that, previously, he had said Roosevelt would seek a third term.

"It is my conviction that there is no other New Dealer qualified to take his place, simply because Mr. Roosevelt has intentionally surrounded himself with men of work ability and has been the practical dictator of every branch of executive government to such an extent that the people at large have identified him with New Dealism."

"No one knows what the turn of events will take before 1940. Therefore a prophecy as to his re-election at this time is more or less absurd. If the high cost of living continues to advance, industry fails to assimilate the tide, and if wages fail to reach the mark of living wages, the fickle public might be persuaded to follow John L. Lewis or some other person of that type. Meanwhile, I see little hope for the Republican party if this party persists in campaigning on a platform similar to its 1936 platform."

The CIO, Coughlin stated, has brought about certain benefits to labor, but has not appreciated the fact that a 10-cent-an-hour wage raise means absolutely nothing as long as there is an unregulated dollar devaluation in America.

"After all, it does not matter how many dollars a man receives per week or per year. What matters is how much bread and butter he can buy and shelter and conveniences a dollar will buy," he said.

Black Not likely To Consider Own Case

Court Starts Secret Deliberations on 400 Actions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Supreme Court began today its secret consideration of more than 400 petitions, including two submitted by Justice Black to remain on the bench.

The conference, held in a close-guarded room at the rear of the chief chamber, will continue on Thursday and Saturday.

It was reported that Justice Black would not participate in consideration of the petitions affecting him.

Observers expect the justices to announce next Monday whether they will consent to pass on questions raised by the eligibility of their new colleague, who took his seat yesterday.

His challengers—neither of whom mentioned the controversy over Black's petition—were the Virgin Islands, and Patrick Henry Kelly, Irish-born Boston attorney.

They contended Black's appointment was unconstitutional because he voted for the bill giving retired justices full pay for life.

After he was made into the chamber yesterday with the eight other justices, Black, sitting on the right, while Kelly and Kelly made their statements.

Kelly, engaged in an exchange with Chief Justice Hughes which the latter ended abruptly by an order that the attorney sit down. He had attempted to make a motion without submitting it in written form.

Kelly, sitting next to the clerk, a memorandum in long hand saying "I object to a hearing on the title of Mr. Justice Black as a member of the Ku Klux Klan."

Answering Justice Black will be his new law clerk, Jerome A. Chiswick, and three other justices, the radio priest replied.

Maine Mourns Barrows' Son

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 5 (AP)—Flags on all state of Maine buildings were placed at half staff today in respect to Governor and Mrs. John L. Barrows and family suffering bereavement through the death of Robert E. Barrows, eldest son of the chief executive.

Simultaneously, the executive council, through its chairman, Ormond B. Fernald of Old Town, ordered that the State House observe the death anniversary from 4 to 5 o'clock and tomorrow from 10 to 11 o'clock.

Funeral services for young Barrows, who was killed in an automobile accident Sunday near Pittsfield, Mass., will be conducted tomorrow morning in the Blaine Memorial in Augusta and in the afternoon in the High Street Baptist Church, Newport.

Deadly Triple Parallel on Black

UNDERWOOD IN 1923 BLACK IN 1926 BLACK IN 1937

Here is the courageous, but fateful anti Ku Klux Klan speech of the late United States Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama delivered at Houston, Tex., on October 28, 1923, just as the Klan planned to seek for him the Democratic nomination for President of the United States.

Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court Hugo L. Black had become a member of the Klan just about a month before the date of Underwood's speech. Black joined the Klan in September of 1923.

Underwood's attack upon the sinister secret government of the Klan ended his political career. He died soon after his defeat for the Senate, supposedly of a broken heart.

Justice Black with the Klan backing stepped into Underwood's Senate shoes on his way to the Supreme Court bench.

Underwood's attack upon the methods of the Klan was as follows:

"We Democrats can condemn no man who stays within the law in the exercise of his personal privilege. The law must not be run by class or clan. Government must be free and in the open and not behind closed doors. It is all right to have organizations for purposes of amusement. It is all right to have fraternal organizations and civic clubs, but when men have secret organizations for the purpose of governing, then they are striking at the very principles of government."

"If there are men in organizations of that kind they must give equal rights to all men who have a claim to American citizenship, and let Democrats should not stay in an organization that denies that right to any man. There is no more cruel and tyrannical rule in the world than that of a despotic majority."

"The purpose of the Constitution of the United States is to protect the individual in his personal and property rights."

Just after this, on Armistice Day, November 11, 1923, in Boston, Underwood followed his first attack with this one:

"The fathers of the Constitution . . . gave freedom to worship God according to the dictates of one's own conscience. The man who comes to this country and takes on the duties of citizenship assumes equal right with any citizen of the United States. That is what our flag represents. When you guarantee the right to worship God according to the dictates of your own conscience that does not mean simply that the church in which you worship shall be protected. . . ."

"It means that there shall be no discrimination against any citizen because of his belief. It does not mean that we shall drive a man from the street because he is of foreign birth but that he is the peer of any other citizen of this great country."

"These are the principles of this country. Tear them down and you tear the flag down with them."

"When we are organized to discriminate between citizens and are trying to raise a hand against the happiness of any citizen of the United States because of his belief we are tearing down the structure of the American government."

Here is what Associate Justice Hugo L. Black had to say openly to 2000 Ku Klux Klansmen in Birmingham, Alabama on August 10, 1926, according to the stenographic minutes of the meeting this was the night he got his golden passport, "good for life."

It shows him, already known, in his own words as the "Junior Senator from Alabama" thanking the Klan for his elevation, asking its counsel and calling the principles of the Klan the principles for which "he fought."

If these stenographic notes are authentic:

MR. JUSTICE BLACK

and they have already been published in many of the leading newspapers throughout the country.—Justice Black spoke as follows:

"Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan Hiram Wesley Evans said:

"Back in the days when we were laying the political campaign of 1924, I knew the fight we had was with liquor and Romanism and was going to be led by Al Smith. . . . I said to myself 'well, there's going to be an awful fight in the convention.' Just because you (Alabamians) had elected Underwood your Senator, down deep in my heart I aimed when the day that McAdoo and Smith had fought themselves to exhaustion to be in a position to nominate Oscar W. Underwood as President of the United States. That was before he had ever denounced the Klan. . . . I think it over. A man born in Alabama. . . . he don't deserve to be the pure bred son of a pure Alabama mother, who would give an apology for the Klan in Alabama. Oscar would have been nominated instead of John W. Davis had he just simply 'set.' He just couldn't have the tradition in him that he ought to have. That goes deep with me. It's a question of white supremacy."

Imperial legal advisor of the Klan said:

"To come down here and find you have given us a man named Black who wears 'white'—do you get it boys?—to occupy a seat in the Senate of the United States is like getting an inspiration just before baptism. . . ."

When the day that McAdoo and Smith had fought themselves to exhaustion to be in a position to nominate Oscar W. Underwood as President of the United States. That was before he had ever denounced the Klan. . . . I think it over. A man born in Alabama. . . . he don't deserve to be the pure bred son of a pure Alabama mother, who would give an apology for the Klan in Alabama. Oscar would have been nominated instead of John W. Davis had he just simply 'set.' He just couldn't have the tradition in him that he ought to have. That goes deep with me. It's a question of white supremacy."

"With my love, with my faith, with my trust, with my undying prayer that this great organization will carry on according, true to the real principles of American manhood and womanhood, with my love, and my faith, and my hope, and my trust, I thank you from the bottom of a heart that is yours." (Great applause.)

Here, in part, is what the radio listeners of the United States heard Associate Justice Hugo L. Black of the United States Supreme Court say last Friday night, October 1, 1937, in his own defense when he openly confessed to having joined the Klan:

"The insinuations of racial and religious intolerance made concerning me are based on the fact that I joined the Ku Klux Klan about 15 years ago. I did join the Klan. I later resigned. I never rejoined. What appeared then, or what appears now, on the records of the organization, I do not know. I never have considered and do not now consider the unwelcome card given me shortly after my nomination to the Senate as a membership of any kind in the Ku Klux Klan. I never used it. I did not even keep it. Before becoming a Senator I dropped the Klan. I have had nothing to do with it since that time. I abandoned it. I completely disavowed it. I am not a member of the organization. I never resumed it and never expect to do so. . . . I have no sympathy with any organization or group which, anywhere, at any time arrogate to itself the un-American power to interfere in the slightest degree with complete religious freedom."

On that night of August 10, 1926, when Justice Black got his golden passport, good for life, here is what was said to him and to Governor Bibb Graves of Alabama, who got a similar golden passport:

Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan Hiram Wesley Evans said:

"Back in the days when we were laying the political campaign of 1924, I knew the fight we had was with liquor and Romanism and was going to be led by Al Smith. . . . I said to myself 'well, there's going to be an awful fight in the convention.' Auto Insurance Threatened by Ring Expose

Boring of Racket May Lead to Crossing Law Off Books

Charges which many predicted would prove to be explosive that will blast temporary automobile insurance out of Massachusetts were under attack yesterday.

In the sensational revelations of two Worcester County town officials, Insurance Commissioner Francis J. DuCharme was said to have found the ramifications of an alleged insurance "racket" which has resulted in the payment of thousands of dollars annually in false accident claims.

JURY ACTION PLANNED

It was understood that District Attorney Owen A. Hoban was planning to present the matter to the grand jury, which convenes October 19.

One official disclosed that the County Fair Association had accumulated a series of complaints against the activities of the racketeers, but had kept the subject a secret for months.

If the case attention which has been given to Worcester County's extra-legal activities of the state, the board of directors of the Worcester County Automobile Association, which has run into trouble, is expected.

It is thought with mounting expense and possible collapse of the racket, it is this situation to the honest insurance companies of the state, the Worcester County Automobile Association, which has run into trouble, is expected.

State Police may ultimately be called in to cope with the racket, and the state of the county, while many of alleged racketeers are being held in custody, the police are being held in custody.

These charges involving more than 300 cases of alleged false damage claims, which caused a wholesale disbanding of lawyers handling the insurance claims in Worcester County, and throughout other sections of the state, the Commissioner declared.

But the key to the whole situation was first publicly revealed by two state officials of the small community of Auburn, who seemed to have been in the state of the state, the Worcester County Automobile Association, which has run into trouble, is expected.

When Dr. Macfarland Spaulding, chairman of the Auburn section, and Police Chief Charles Raman started out to get to the bottom of the critical insurance problem, they were at first only concerned with the insurance companies.

They found, according to charges presented before the current public hearings on the 1936 insurance law.

REFRIGILS STRIKED

That insurance claims listed as losses were paid to residents of their community had never been received by the persons named.

That in some instances accidents occurred while damage claims were paid, never really happened.

Bacteria Set For Long Rest

Sealed in Cornerstone Of Notre Dame Lab

ROUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 5 (AP)—It may take 300 years, but University of Notre Dame scientists are going to get to the bottom of a certain bacteriological problem.

Dr. James A. Reyniers, head of the Notre Dame laboratory of bacteriology, said six cultures of bacteria, sealed in glass test tubes, have been deposited in the cornerstone of the new campus library building.

The tubes will remain there until the building is torn down, probably in 300 years. Then, they will be taken to the department's figures. With the cultures was sealed a typed list of instructions "in the case that sprang them."

Dr. Reyniers said the experiment was made to determine how long this type of microbe can exist outside of bodies.

Hoover Lashes "Sob Sister" Paroles

Warns of Mounting Crime Bill as a Result

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—With 4,500,000 lawbreakers, many of them armed, roving the streets, America's annual crime bill now totals $15,000,000,000 a year, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal bureau of investigation, had warned here today.

Speaking at the round table forum under the auspices of the New York Herald-Tribune, Hoover vigorously lashed "sob-sister" parole boards for turning hardened criminals loose upon the country, demanding "padding of criminals be halted," and appealed for a national uprising against crime.

"No nation can call itself free from turmoil when it is beset by more than 4,500,000 active criminals, many of them armed, and all of them enlisted in predatory warfare against society," Hoover declared in placing part of the crime wave upon "political interference" with law enforcement officers.

NATION RESIGNED
"When any nation is assailed to the extent that a major crime occurs every 74 seconds, that every 66 minutes some one dies by the violence of homicide, then, indeed, are we a nation resigned," he said.

Annually there are 14,000,000 assaults upon civilians or one every two seconds, he warned. To meet the $15,000,000,000 annual crime bill every person in the country must pay $20 a month in "crime taxes," he said, explaining.

"If this sum is not forthcoming in money, then it will be collected in robbery, in suffering and in bloodshed."

"America," he charged, "and must be rescued from its lack of national attitude," pleaded Hoover. Many of our citizens, thousands upon thousands of them," he said, "have failed to see the fact that crime is a national problem, that they are aware that they are aware and contemptuous."

"SOB-SISTER" PAROLES
In many states "sob-sister" parole boards are operating, Hoover charged.

While lauding parole when "properly practiced," he protested against "the practice of giving free freedom to vicious, incorrigible enemies of society, who, freed by easy criminals, are then assisted in the commission of new crimes, new horrors, new murders and new maiming and murdering our citizens."

Thirty per cent of the 13,493 most dangerous criminals listed in the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, he said, "have been freed on parole by sentimental subversives from one to eight and nine and ten times."

Sorrowing Parents and 'Circle Death' Victim

Grief stricken at the tragic events which made their daughter Frances and her sweetheart, Louis Weiss, victims of a killer as they sat in a parked car, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hajek are shown leaving the Queens Village, L. Brockton Shoot Victim Gains

BROCKTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Improvement was reported today in the condition of Arthur C. Gay, 19, shot through the chest, Saturday night as he sat in a parked automobile with Sylvia Pauling, 16. The girl also suffered a slight bullet wound in the arm.

Meanwhile Leo F. Moxley, 27, of North Middle Street, was held in Plymouth Jail in lieu of $150,000 bail, charged with assault with intent to murder Gay and Miss Pauling and attempted attack on the girl. He pleaded innocent.

Dr. Edward Gilmore said X-ray photographs showed the bullet which entered Gay's chest lodged in the shoulder muscles behind the left lung, and that unless infection developed Gay would recover. He said no immediate attempt would be made to remove the bullet.

Knights Seem A Bit Twisted

St. Finbar Officers Split in Mayoralty

The president and the vice-president of the Knights of St. Finbar can't see eye to eye in the present mayoralty mix-up. For the moment, the vice-president is one up.

Meeting in Charlestown yesterday with Vice-President, Vincent McCarthy in the chair, the Knights endorsed the candidacy of William J. Foley for mayor.

But President Cornelius Hickey, away at the time today said he'd see that all was changed. Stunned by the McCarthy coup, Hickey sped to the office of James M. Curley. There he announced:

"In some way unknown to me, but done by trickery, William J. Foley was named as the organization's choice."

"In my opinion, the majority of the members are for James M. Curley. There will be another vote on this question."

Alberta Passes True News Law

EDMONTON, Alberta, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Alberta legislature today passed a bill requiring newspapers to publish "corrective" general statements, and providing for the mandatory disclosure of names of writers and their sources.

When called upon by the chairman of the social credit bill committee, publishers must print statements correcting or amplifying any statements relating to any policy or activity of the government in the same type and same column as any alleged "misstatement." The violation fine is from $500 to $1,000.

The measure was among 11 bills passed in today's final session of the legislature. Recall proceedings against Premier William Abernethy in the Ontario-High River district were instituted.

Roosevelt's Talk Hailed in Paris As Peace Aid

Speech "Enlists U. S." In World Affairs, French Assert

PARIS, Oct. 5 (AP)—A Foreign Office spokesman today hailed President Roosevelt's speech in Chicago as marking the "real entry of the great moral force of the United States" into the world affairs.

"The speech will have tremendous repercussions," the spokesman said.

"The full backing of the United States for nations who are working to preserve peace means that they will be greatly strengthened. This responsible for the state of international anarchy" will be made to think twice before they commit further depredations."

Italy Claims Credit As "Peace-Loving"
ROME, Oct. 5 (AP)—Well informed sources said President Roosevelt's speech in Chicago today as "peace-loving" had also applied to Italy.

They called attention to Premier Mussolini's Berlin speech in which he had expressed belief that would result from his meeting with Chamberlain and Hitler.

It was pointed out by these observers that Italy's willingness to further negotiations with Great Britain to settle differences between them was a good indication Italy does not want war.

If the Mediterranean situation is in a state of international anarchy, the expert is not Italy but Soviet Russia, he added.

There was no official reaction in London.

Berlin Reluctant To Give Comment

BERLIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—Official quarters here were reluctant today to discuss President Roosevelt's Chicago speech calling for universal peace, pending a study of the complete text.

On the issue of brief reports, the tendency in the Wilhelmstrasse was to assume the President was referring primarily to the Far Eastern situation.

So far as concerned European action in connection with the Far East, the German government attitude consistently has been that Europe decided against itself can not hope to prevail, with an authoritative voice in Asia.

Statement Welcomed Warmly by London

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt's Chicago address, although for a long time, the statement would be welcomed as a very significant well informed quarters here today.

The foreign office apart from showing "evident interest," followed the usual custom of refraining from commenting on a speech by the head of a state.

Informed quarters interpreted the speech as a strong commitment of the methods of totalitarianism, which they said, "in these days when demagogues must guard against propaganda from the mail Communist front, just as much as against propaganda which totalitarian states have."

The fact that both forms of propaganda expand beyond their frontiers, endangering democracy, gave a particularly timely note to the speech, these quarters said.

Mrs. Ames Scoffs at 'Betrothal'

Loughs at Reports Of Hollywood Romance

MAURICE AMES, attractive concert singer, and Boston society widow of Frederick L. Ames, former anarchy sportman-plut, today characterized her reported engagement to Stanley Smith, Hollywood actor, as "too funny."

Back at her Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay, apartment from a long stay in Hollywood, Mrs. Ames said with a smile:

"Engaged? If someone had only told me, I first heard it when I got aboard the train last week."

"I've tried my best to discover who started the whole thing. But it's too funny."

"I don't know what Stanley will do when he finds out," she, the charming concert singer laughed, "but everyone knows but the people concerned. He's on action now. Imagine his surprise when his friends start congratulating him!"

Mrs. Ames, when she finally consented last month, stated she would remain in Boston for several weeks rehearsing for concerts scheduled for the winter season in New York. Her eight-year-old daughter, who accompanied her here from Hollywood and will attend a Back Bay school for 20th.

Ames, with Frances Burnett, actress, married and Frederick Ames, were killed when Ames' plane crashed at Hingham, Massachusetts, December 8, 1932. They were headed for New York to attend a football game.

Rosman Set Free In Bail Case

William Rosman of Police street, Dorchester, charged with abduction of a minor, was freed today in municipal court after Judge Joseph Reilly found "no probable cause."

The state alleged that Rosman had Mrs. Mary Yates, 42, of Arden street, South End, put up "straw bail" for Francis O'Keefe of Boston, charged with attempted abduction of Sergeant William P. Long.

Mrs. Yates recently died. The state asked that the case be dropped, since she was to have been chief witness.

'Lipstick Slayer' Hunt Shifts to Bay State

This picture of 19-year-old Frances Hajek, New York murder victim, was made when she was vacationing in Boston only two months ago. Miss Hajek was slain with a young man escort.

Max Hajek and Wean were shot through the head late Saturday night as they sat in a parked car in a secluded "love" lane in Queens.

The killer drove a 1934 Buick sedan and took time to inscribe a red circle with the girl's lipstick on the forehead of each of his victims.

Miss Hajek's Massachusetts vacation assumed an important role in the murder inquiry after a post-mortem mailed from Amsterdam had been found at the home of the slain girl.

Authorities learned that the girl and Miss Nettie Brown drove here to visit Mrs. Josephine Denholm of Massachussetts avenue, Rock Hill, and Mrs. Mary Little of West Bedford square, South End.

NANTASKET HOLIDAY
The Hajek girl was described as quiet and well-mannered by members of both Boston families, who said she spent considerable time viewing historical spots in and near Boston.

The New York girls spent a gay holiday at Nantasket Beach with Richard Cotton, 25, of Riverside street, West Rutherford, a friend of the Little family.

Doherty Is Given Pershing Bust

PARIS, Oct. 5 (AP)—Three thousand American Legionnaires and French war veterans board Marshal Pétain acknowledging today the justice of General Pershing's 1917 stand that American troops fight in France as an American army.

Twenty years after the United States' entry into the war, The famous French commander recognized the courtesies of the American general's position—a position which for a time threatened serious discord with Allied commanders, who urged incorporation of American troops into their own divisions.

The diners assembled at long tables in a courtyard at the Invalides, said a host of Pershing presented by Paris Legionnaires to Marshal Pétain.

Doherty, of Webster, Mass., was made a commander of the Legion of Honor by Pétain.

Dorchester Man, in China, Photos War Horrors as Area Crumbles in Bomb Raids

On Scene at Time, Sends Pictures To Wife Here

First hand knowledge of the carnage wrought by the undeclared war that rages now in China was received today by Mrs. Anna Rose of 211 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester.

Her husband, Captain Thomas W. Rose, now on a round-the-world cruise on the S. S. President Pierce, has sent her a letter and pictures that graphically depict the horror that grips the teeming business center of the International Settlement at Shanghai on Saturday, August 14.

BUST SPOT BEFORE
A few moments before the pictures were taken the square at the corner of Avenue Edward VII and Yu Ya Ching road was a busy and cheerful spot.

Then a Chinese fighting plane, under shillie from Japanese anti-aircraft guns, dropped its load of bombs onto the square. A series of deafening explosions, then the arrival of the wounded killed the place, and it was transformed to a madhouse.

The pictures were made before the powder smoke had risen and before aid had arrived on the scene.

TEACHES HERE
Captain Rose was on the trip in connection with his tests of new summer tables for new methods of navigation to be used by the United States hydrographic department.

He is a navigator and nautical astronomer; he teaches classes at Massachusetts University extension, and has his own school of navigation at his home address.

He has invented a number of nautical instruments and taught navigation to Amelia Earhart.

Japanese Invade
Far South of China

SHANGHAI, Oct. 5 (AP)—Advices from Hongkong said six Japanese warships loaded hundreds of blueprints on three small islands in the Chusan area south of the huge Chinese port of Canton and not far from Britain's naval base at Hongkong.

According to authoritative advice from Manila, the Japanese navy landed on the islands last night.

News of the southern invasion, which threatens to spread hand-to-hand fighting over a far greater portion of China than heretofore, was brought to Hongkong by Chinese officials arriving there from Macao.

After their first act, the advices stated, the Japanese were rapidly leveling an airfield on the largest of the islands.

19 Chinese Warships
Sunk, Tokyo Asserts

TOKYO, Oct. 5 (AP)—Nineteen Chinese warships have been sunk by Japanese destroyers, squares and war planes, officers of the Japanese fleet command claimed today in official advices to Tokyo.

This number, they said, represents the number of Chinese warships sent to the bottom since the Shanghai hostilities began.

CAPTAIN THOMAS W. ROSE

Death strikes in Shanghai! Horrified spectators gaze avert their heads as they see the shambles that has been wrought at what was a two-way street a busy shopping intersection in the International Settlement. These pictures, owned by Mrs. Anna Rose of Savin Hill avenue in Dorchester, were sent to Mrs. Rose by her husband, Capt. Thomas W. Rose, navigation authority, who was on hand at the time.

Smoke, screams and moans echo the din of a Chinese fighting plane under shillie from anti-aircraft guns. Parts of human bodies, a fender, bolts of blood litter the pavement. A traffic control box with two officers has been blown to bits.

A closeup of the traffic circle in the other pictures. In this small area at avenue Edward VII and Yu Ya Ching road in the International Settlement, 445 were instantly killed, 600 more died of their injuries later, 888 were hurt.

Carnage! Bodies are piled up, awaiting disposal. Chinese were the greater number of the 1045 victims who died here in a space of a few feet, within minutes of each other on the afternoon of August 14.

Advertising Men Elect Carroll Of Pittsfield

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 5.—Frank J. Carroll of Pittsfield, Mass., was elected district governor of the New England Federation of Advertising Clubs at the N. E. Advertising Conference here.

Other officers included Philip J. McAttee of the Boston Advertising Club as vice-governor and Miss Alice McChatt of East Providence, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Earlier Harry Boyd Brown, radio merchandising manager of Philadelphia, told the conference members that the modern newspaper with its "speed and great flexibility" is today's ideal advertising medium.

Speaking before more than 200 executives of advertising agencies, department stores, newspaper and broadcasting officials, the Philadelphia man predicted television in practical use in "four years."

With the coming of television, he said, newspapers will be equipped with broadcasting trucks to speed in action scenes, to give television broadcasts of news while it is happening.

The advertising parity also heard Congressman Ralph G. Brewster of Maine, and Governor Robert E. Quinn of Rhode Island. The Maine Republican moved the present administration for "stiffening taxes crippling industry."

Duce Planes, Led by Son In Spain, New Peace Peril

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Operations of a squadron of the finest Italian bombing planes, piloted by Benito Mussolini and other sons of the Italian air corps in the service of insurgent Spain, today threw a grave, new factor into the problem of European peace.

Authoritative sources regarded the disclosure in Rome of the aerial expedition as a very serious turn in an international situation made more critical by a new outbreak of piracy on the Western Mediterranean.

The squadron of 23 fast Savoia Marchetti bombers—the best Italy has—was piloted by the 20-year-old son of the Italian premier and 22 other prominent airmen, including veterans of the mass fight to the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition, was believed to have made its inaugural attack in a bombardment of Valencia.

The disclosure came at a moment already intensified by Italian and French waiting for Italy's reply to an invitation to discuss withdrawal of Italian aid from insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The secret of the identity of the latest submarine attacker lay within a twisted bulk on sea bottom off the coast of Spain—provided the raider which attacked the British destroyer Haulk had been within a half mile of one of the numerous depth bombs launched to blast it apart.

London and Paris were convinced that Premier Mussolini was doing all he could to maneuver himself into a bargaining position on the "suspense" issue, by pushing for an insurgent victory over the Valencia government before winter. But this course seemed likely to stiffen the hitherto "courageous" Anglo-French attempts to get Italy's legions out of Spain.

Message From Roosevelt on Census Card

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Registration blanks for the forthcoming unemployment census will carry a message from President Roosevelt, asking the cooperation of every family.

The cream-colored questionnaires were made public today. On one side are 14 questions, and on the other is this statement by the President:

"If you are unemployed or partially unemployed and are able to work and are seeking work, please fill out this report card right away and mail it before midnight, Saturday, November 20, 1937. No postage stamp is needed."

SEE WHY JENNEY Solvenized

Gives you More for Your Money

Here's why JENNEY Solvenized Gasoline will give you far more mileage, more power, and will reduce oil consumption and repair bills.

Piston rings when "frozen" by carbon cannot expand and operate properly. Result is loss of compression and excessive oil consumption. Power leaks away.

Carbon around valve stems prevents tight seating, lets power and gasoline leak away.

Carbon-fouled spark plugs mean weak ignition, slow starting, a skipping motor.

Carbon deposits on piston head often cause pre-ignition and knocking.

JENNEY Solvenized dissolves gum, the carbon binder, and so lets carbon blow out the exhaust. With JENNEY in your car, no hard carbon can build up around valves, rings, pistons, spark plugs. JENNEY Solvenized delivers the full gasoline power you pay for. Start using this remarkable gasoline today, and save money.

May Seek U. S. Aid to Purge Woonsocket

Civic Leaders Plan Plea To G-Men if State Fails to Act

By JAMES F. McENANEY
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 5.—The state cleans up alleged racketeering and gangster conditions in Woonsocket, prominent citizens and business leaders of that city will appeal to the Department of Justice for aid, Governor Robert E. Quinn declared today.

The governor said that he had received numerous complaints recently from high ranking citizens of Woonsocket.

He declared these citizens charged that vice and narcotics-running conditions existed in the city and on these would they base their appeal to the federal government if the state did not act.

Earlier today the governor defended the entire reputation of the state police to the city of Woonsocket. It was expected that he would personally direct the investigation.

Dahl Trial Ends, Flier Is Doomed

Failure of the Court to Announce Verdict Points to Death

By JAMES F. McENANEY
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

SALAMANCA, Oct. 5 (INS)—With indications a verdict of death may have been reached, the court-martial of Harold E. Dahl, American aviator of Champlain, N. Y., and three Russians arrested with him of "taking arms against the republic," ended today.

Dahl and the other prisoners were captured by Spanish insurgents while flying for the loyalist air force.

The Russians furnished a confession, they insisted they were not "volunteers," intimating they had been ordered to Spain by the Soviet government.

They asked for mercy on the ground that training at sea hands of the Soviet regime had given them the impression that they were to be soldiers and "bound to serve as ordered."

When the trial ended the presiding judge announced the findings of the court-martial would be "pronounced."

Charges of gang warfare and municipal corruption in Woonsocket followed the death of Paul Thomas, Alfred Lemmon, last Saturday.

Woonsocket today asserted with reports that the motorcycle effort had actually been murdered in a motorcycle pursuit.

Lemmon was killed when a motorcycle burst into a brick house as he pursued a car from which gunmen had blasted the house of city officials with bullets.

The gunfire, it was openly "thundered" editorially by the Woonsocket Call, may have been a pre-arranged plan to put the officers at the spot by drawing him into the fatal chase.

Raids Cripple Fast Growing Gambling Ring

Police today believed that three raids on Boston race betting establishments, resulting in the arrest of 14 men, had smashed a rapidly expanding gambling ring.

Raiders struck almost simultaneously in North End, Roxbury and Dorchester. In a cat-and-mouse game after they had planned coup after they had learned that betting parties must be a police campaign last week were more active here.

83 of these arrests were made after North End officers had smashed their way through an iron door and chased a number of occupants of a Hanover street apartment across rooftops as they attempted to escape.

Captain Thomas S. J. Kavanaugh, armed with a search warrant, led a detail to the building. Within they found men combing a ladder to a roof trapdoor. Special Officer J. Fred Hart seized the slips from a stove in which he saw one of the men tossing them.

All arrested were held for arraignment today in municipal court on charges of registering bets on horses.

In an Dorchester street, Dorchester, home one man was arrested during a similar raid and held on the registering charge.

The raid in Roxbury on Cliff Ford street, resulted in the arrest of two men for allegedly registering bets and five others for being present at a "very" gambling impromptu were used.

Making It Tough

Police under Captain Thomas S. J. Kavanaugh, made it tough for horse race bookies to ever resume operations after a raid on an alleged gambling resort on Hanover street, for they removed the furniture from the place after chasing occupants of the place over the roof behind barred doors. A large crowd gathered to watch operations which were only part of a trio of raids, the others being in Roxbury and Dorchester.

Teachers' Job 'Solution' Weighed

School committee members today considered a proposal to increase teaching families in Boston by reducing the teacher pupil load in public schools.

The suggestion came in the form of a motion by Dr. Patrick J. Keane to reduce the load in the first grade from 40 to 35 pupils per teacher, thus providing employment for more than 30 permanent positions. It was made at a committee meeting last night.

The proposal, based on a majority recommendation by the board of supervisors, was introduced by Dr. Joseph V. Lyons, who said it would solve the teacher recruitment problem in some extent.

According to Dr. Lyons, adoption of Dr. Keane's motion would allow the hiring of 35 new teachers at a starting salary of $1200 each a year and pension privileges.

The proposal, however, was opposed by Maurice J. Tobin, who had offered a previous motion to eliminate the maximum pupil load. Dr. Tobin's motion was rejected as a substitute for his solution.

Tobin proposed to create a new rank system based on years of service, with a maximum salary of $2000 a year and pension privileges while in service. He said that 25 pupils per teacher.

Wheeler Like Greek Sage

We figure that Senator Wheeler's name isn't being mentioned at least five thousand times on this trip.

These other Montana Congressmen were cited for negligence in the case and arrested verbally. But Montana's non-conforming senator has been sent to an executive order from which there is no appeal.

Nevertheless, the senatorial Wheeler is in the Greek philosophy who was asked why he had no marble statue in an era of numerous marble and granite monuments to less worthy men.

"I could rather be asked why I have no statue," he said "than why I have."

THE WILKEN FAMILY

BLENDED WHISKEY—IT'S OUR FAMILY'S WHISKEY, NEIGHBOR!

What would you figure we paid for little Mike here?

I gave my word I'd never let on how little we gave up for Mike when we bought him off the Fulton last spring. But I'll say this much: Upward here everybody believes in letting folks have things for a real neighborly price. It's likely you've heard what a neighborly price our own Family's Whiskey is sold at!

Harry E. Wilken

refreshingly Milder more pleasing Flavor and Aroma

Some things that please you to pieces don't cost so awful much!

Take Our Family's Whiskey for instance

In regards to this business of picking out a real good whiskey to buy—maybe you've noted folks one time or another judging a whiskey by the price that's asked for it. I always say there's just one dead certain way of getting your money's worth—and that's by tasting any whiskey that by rights ought to be good—forgetting all about how dear or cheap it is.

The Wilken Family Whiskey is just as mild and just as extra tasty as if it was priced 2 times as high.

For it's made exactly according to the Family Recipe of us Wilkens that have been making the finest whiskey we know how since back in the year eighteen eighty something. It's the sellsame whiskey as is enjoyed by us distillers. And I'll tell you Tasty is the word for it. Next time, you try it and see if it isn't!

THIS IS LIFE

By Robert E. Rogers

One of the questions which is always being asked me, particularly by Tech students who are tired of studying to be engineers and think they would like to be a columnist, that is— "What do you do to be a writer?" or better "How do you learn how to write?"

Usually I have no respectable answer for them. I can't say I ever learned how to write. I write and I suspect that really I do not "write," except in the sense of a fairly automatic process. But young folks, particularly, do so crave to know that the best one can do is to point out to them something helpful whenever one runs across it.

This time it is one of our own younger Bostonians who essays the task in a pleasantly written and practical book entitled "How to Write for a Living," recently published by Reynal and Hitchcock, a New York publishing house.

White Has Run Gamut
In the Field of Writing

His name is Trentwell Mason White and he is well known in these parts as writer, editor and lecturer on writing as the division of University Extension, Harvard, the Curry School, and the famous Breadout summer school for ambitious (and serious) would-be writers.

He is well known not only for his own writings but for the writings of his students. Once it is recorded he wrote four different kinds of books in the same year, a boy's story, a mystery novel, a "guidance book" and a study of early American literature.

He has obviously run the gamut in the writing field, has been the president of a Boston publishing house; he ought to know all the ropes, and this book shows that he does.

The sections of the book deal with the problems that must be solved in all types of practical writing. He deals with the short story, first as a form or pattern, and, secondly, in its various types, adventure, love, detective or mystery, and "western."

There is a section, too, on juveniles, the requirements of which differ notably from that of fiction for adults. The juvenile serial, too—that favorite which is as old as The Young's Companion and St. Nicholas—gives the writer hints on fabricating. The short story, the novelette, and the novel, while all more practical hints. There are even chapters by experts in the associated fields of the radio script, the drama script, and even the movies.

He Points Out the Big Job
Of Selling an MS.

But Mr. White doesn't stop there. He has a good deal to say about the difficult and bothersome problems of getting an MS. ready for editor and printer, and above all, the job of putting it over, or selling.

Although Mr. White is perfectly capable of giving all kinds of useful and practical advice, he does not hog the show. With the permission of the Writers' Magazine, in which parts of his own advice have appeared, he has been able to draw upon experts in particular fields whose articles he has incorporated into his book with helpful results.

Among these unofficial and expert aids are Elizabeth Costaworth (juvenile fiction), Francis W. Hilton (westerns), James B. Conolly (non stories), Albert Payson Terhune (dog stories), Doris F. Haiman (movie scripts), Seymour Martin (radio scripts) and Alice Howard Spaulding (the play manuscript).

Drabs On Experts
For the Business End

On the business end, dealing with editors, publishers and agents, he is able to draw upon such experts as Edward Weeks of the Atlantic, Harford Power, novelist and advertising man, and Grace Morse, Leonard H. Nason, famous for his war stories, teaches you how to write adventure fiction and Frederick Orr Bartlett tells of the difficulties of the person who deals with life at second rather than first hand.

"How to Write for a Living" seems to me a very useful, not to say valuable book, particularly for the presumably young people who have set their teeth and resolved to learn writing as a trade which will support them.

There are many more of such people than you would guess. They are eager for help. This book seems to me to contain a good deal of that help. But after all, the secret of writing is not "inspiration" but, in the famous words of Mary Heaton Vorse, "the never-ending application of the seat of the pants to the desk chair." Without that there is nothing.

Labor Must Solve Own Problems, Says Earle

Pennsylvania Chief, Visiting Here, Talks With Hurley

George H. Earle, self-styled governor of Pennsylvania and a No. 1 Roosevelt man was in Boston today.

Referring to a charged case in Harrisburg, Pa. the governor said before a luncheon of business leaders and labor leaders of the Ku Klux Klan the Communist probe in Massachusetts and labor problems.

"I am not deciding what labor should do, labor must settle its own problems," he said. "But I do believe that any organization which hopes to solidify American labor must abolish distinctions between kinds of labor."

The governor said he supports the American Federation of Labor and its fight against discrimination. The CIO he avoided mentioning.

TALKS WITH HURLEY
At the point of view of Earle in a cream blue suit with a pattern in a buttonhole, went to the telephone and talked with Governor Hurley.

"Governor Hurley, I shall always remember our friendly and our understanding of many problems," he said.

The governor said he approved of the present Massachusetts law of "Communism and its allies" and "Soviet spies."

"At present we have no trouble with Communism in Pennsylvania. But the first indication we have of it I shall immediately start an investigation."

He also declared to speak of Associate Justice Hugo B. Black as a "friend" of the Ku Klux Klan and "a dangerous enemy of the people."

DELICATE STATE
At present tolerance in the United States is in delicate condition. We must not revert to racial and religious prejudices as they are in Europe today.

"My own family all Quakers, were persecuted by religious intolerance people."

"I heartily approve of Governor Hurley's efforts to wipe out subversive influence in Massachusetts. I would never put up with it in my state."

"Communism, no matter what Paul Browder says about gaining control of the government by force, is not for government by force and therefore are not in the hands of Communists. They are in the hands of the people."

"First, belief in God; secondly, the rights of a man to be an individual and not a mechanism for the state; thirdly, the right to choose who he is to be for him."

In recent years he would have been called a Communist. He was called a "fascist" in the 1920s, and a "traitor" in the 1930s.

"The only way to prevent such a black board background as that of Senator Black's from being applied to the United States Supreme Court is to name an advisory board consisting of the chief justices of state supreme courts or a board of prominent men such as the deans of law schools in the country."

"I believe that the eligibility for Supreme Court judges should be limited to such men as judges of our best state supreme courts, or in general, men having no direct contact with politics."

"The Black case is a political matter on the part of President Roosevelt, who appointed Black without an investigation."

Di Stasio Hopes To Save Life

Frank Di Stasio, convicted gun-torch-murderer now awaiting execution in State Prison, today saw a ray of hope for his life in a petition in his behalf before the Supreme Court.

Charging jurors who condemned Di Stasio had been questioned by him before the trial, William H. Reardon, counsel for the convicted murderer, today filed a petition with the highest state tribunal for a writ of certiorari.

Attorney General James J. Connelley is drawing up the transcript, to go before the court.

Dorchester Boy, 12, Tells Of Trapping Sex Suspect

Polishing his "G-Man" badge, the Finks Corner station for questioning, 12-year-old triplet Joseph Cassidy, of Welles Avenue, Dorchester, today was able to tell his brothers how he acted as a real detective and brought about the arrest of a sex-offense suspect.

Joseph, son of Mrs. Susan Cassidy Hegan, was running an errand for his mother when he was approached by a man who offered him a dollar to go down to Lynde street "place."

Remembering the warnings of his mother, he gave him a St. Mark's Parochial School, the district's willingness to give him a "place."

However, he told the man, first he would have to go home and see if his mother were there. He said he would return if she were not.

At home he told Mrs. Hegan about the incident and she called police. A patrol car rushed to the house and the officers arranged for Joseph to act as a "plant."

The boy returned in Colman square, where he had promised to meet the suspect. When he did the police car followed, but was stopped by the man.

He instructed Joseph in art as though he knew him and said about "guess Mac had home tonight."

TAKEN IN CUSTODY
The sentence was designed to make the officers believe the pair intended visiting a man they saw in the house before which they stood, the man told the young boy.

At this point, however, police took him in custody. He was held at the police station.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Marjorie McBride

If you are not in the banking business, you will be surprised to learn that one of the major problems in a big financial institution is the matter of unclaimed deposits. People who put money in and then die or forget are more numerous than you might imagine.

At the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank, there are $53,000 in unclaimed deposits recently turned over to the state. Some of them had been resting there almost a quarter of a century. Most of them were small and nearly all were in the names of men.

Women have memories like elephants when it comes to remembering where they have put money. Treasurer George A. Kille agrees, and they usually come back May be because they are not so accustomed to handing money, and depositing makes a stronger impression on their minds.

Men of means sometimes are forgetful when reminded they have put money in a bank and forget to tell it. It means then less "lump" and they have to be argued with to accept it.

These late-claimed accounts have become the "lost" in every bank. A grandparent's estate, a college account for a son, how many more to the credit of parents. Then they die and nobody will know about the money. Or a business man will open a small account, get it started and suddenly die. The money is lost.

State Gets Unclaimed Deposits After 25 Years
It is part of banking custom that when a depositor opens a savings account, he signs a check, leaving it away and forgets to take money out of the bank.

Once in every 25 years, all the savings banks turn over to the state all unclaimed deposits. That is, of course, after a conscientious cleaning campaign in an effort to find the owner or his heirs.

The Elizabeth C. who was awarded the Edward Langley scholarship for research in research a few days ago, is a Radcliffe graduate and the daughter of a well known Boston architect. Incidentally, she was the first woman ever to win the award.

Now established in New York, Miss C. is getting a national reputation as a designer of homes. She professes a liking for small houses, small airplanes and small boats. And she always sees in the prospective tenant before planning a new home.

It's a theory of hers that houses should match the people, if you know what she means.

Doll Sales Booming
At Stores in Boston
Not that the evenings are longer, and little girls are spending more play hours indoors, doll sales are booming at the Boston shops. At Faneuil's they're featuring marionettes, many of them designed by the famous Artist Tony Sarr. Sophisticated adults as well as children enjoy manipulating them.

At R. H. Stearns store, the prima donna doll is the Princess Elizabeth. As you have guessed, it is part of the coronation hangover, and the doll looks like the pretty little princess royal of England.

At the Jordan Marsh store, they have all sorts of dolls, but the customers seem to be favoring the Quaintique, still as popular as when the Diones were very young.

First Gramophone Thrilled Helen Hayes
A series of "First Memories" of famous people is being presented weekly by the Boston Sunday Advertiser. Actress Helen Hayes, appearing in "Victoria Regina" at the Shubert Theatre tells Girl About Town her earliest recollection is playing the family gramophone.

"I think I was about four years old," she says, "when I first ventured to put a record on the gramophone all by myself. It was the old-fashioned cylinder record. One of Sousa's marches. I remember how terribly it scratched as it played, but I was very thrilled by the music."

Nature note: An old man who has been feeding the squirrels at the Common for years says civilization is softening them up. They have grown so used to peanuts that when they get a good old fashioned chestnut now they hide it to mellow it because they can't crack it with their teeth. Next, he says disgustedly, they'll be seeing their dentist twice a year!

That's Better

Retort To Critic Of Football's Slug-Nutty Martyrs

I THINK I WILL HAUL OFF AND SASS back a national weekly magazine which says that most ex-variety football players wind up by becoming slug-nutty, lungers or debilitated dim-wits from being clouted repetitiously on body and head. The piece is authored by a gent who played some football at Columbia in the medicine-show period of the game when the athletes wore bamboo shin-plasters, rubber false faces and were called hayheads from the way they wore their hair.

The concluding paragraph of this opus reads, "In twenty years the only change one can see . . . is that the present day football stars are knocked about the head so much that, when they break down later with some diseases, their minds are so anesthetized that they are spared the mental anguish which normal patients endure."

That may explain why something like loose scrap iron jangles in my skull when I sneeze, or why spots like floating pennies appear before my eyes and I hear saw-mill buzzings after my 15th thimble of hooch. It's the cerebral battering I took at Maston Park High, Exeter and Lafayette and during four seasons of graduate football in Buffalo and Philadelphia. Yes, sir, I'm a walking wreck and everybody who played on those teams is a candidate for the chuckle academy, a bacilli ward or a tin cup and a fiddle.

Tugwell, LaRoche and Casey

TO MENTION A FEW OF THESE SLAP-HAPPY derelicts who were martyred by their varsity mistakes there was Dr. Rex Tugwell, the Roosevelt ex-brain truster, who was a veritable mountain goat in his Maston days and who wound up making molasses at $25,000 a year. We called him "Snivvies" from the way he snuffed up his nosebleeds which began to drool at the first onslaught because he tackled habitually by inserting his head between a ball carrier's legs and tossed him with a twist of his neck.

Then there was a pudding-brained gent named Chet LaRoche at Exeter and Yale who ended by selling white space for a national journal with a suite of many lined offices, a corps of lip-stick stenographers and $20,000 a year. In his young days Chet had a stomach development which looked like a pan of Parker House biscuits. He used to let tacklers encircle his thorax in order to bust their arms with a spasmoid twitch of his muscles.

Also there was a bird named Eddie Casey, who captained that Exeter team and later hit the line for Harvard. He was built like a horse jockey and had the bashful habit of blushing clear to his intestines. But he had the knack of liquidating into a slippery fluid like melted goose grease and leaking through opposing fingers. Or he would unscrew himself from a tackler's clutch like a hot water bottle cap or tea dance on a dime. Being never bigger than 160 pounds he took his share of brutalizing and finished by getting a soldier's hat from a federal angel to the tune of $6500 as director of the local youth movement.

Kempson, Lowe and Comerford

YOU MAY REMEMBER FLOYD KEMPSON, the west pocket quarterback at Exeter, Exeter and Yale, who used to strap himself in a straight jacket to keep his parts from being jumbled like an omelette and then moved through the opposition like meaves in an orphanage. He is head of the mathematics department at Hill School and doing pretty good for a guy with a hooped cerebellum.

One end of that Exeter team was Bulger Lowe, the present chairman of the Board of Selectmen in Arlington and a downtown business man, who also played at Lafayette, Syracuse and Fordham before being chewed up with German shrapnel. Later he played a half dozen years with the Franklin Yellow Jackets, the Canton Bulldogs and Providence Steamrollers. And if you think he is a slug-nutty, just try to sell him a short carload of curbstone, or a mud traffic light, or attempt to wangle a job for your Aunt Emma in the Arlington park department.

The other end was a character named Charley Comerford who ate electric light bulbs for breakfast, rented out his chest to the New Hampshire farmers for fall plowing and even carried away temporary biscuits in the Yale bowl while throwing a mile high block. Charley was insurance in gross loss, never loses a customer and hops chuck N. Y. U. in his spare time.

There Were Failures Too

THIS LIST COULD BE STRETCHED OUT indefinitely like Big Pete Madson, the old Lafayette tackle who turned orthopedic surgeon and gets $25 if he just twiddles your little toe. Or Dave McGuinness, the ex-Exeter and Langh fullback, who sells trainloads of cellophane, fatty aspics, imperium, corset sacs, durills and chemical by-products for dupe. Or Freddie Lohr, the Lafayette center with the underdog's head, who builds bridges, farious and subway systems in Pittsburg. Or Bunny Lorch, the ex-Harvard prosecutor and legal hopnose finder; Bing Gaynor, the cement mill magnate; Popsy Williams, the Methodist preacher and Ty Hammond, the Army colonel.

I could mention a few failures, too. One shot himself in a roadside ditch, one became a brilliant alcoholic, one abandoned with his company's funds and is doing a stretch in Ossining. Several died of ailments. But in the final sum-up, most ex-football playing classmates have done little better and in some cases much worse, including those that were predatory millionaires and fell into commercial chum traps.

If football made some bumps there were also unwholesome types who might have been better bums for having learned to take their bruises and disappointments and so risen from their ashes. For, properly played, football can be a tonic model of all living and its martyrs are no more conspicuous than the pathetic derelicts who brought bad news in the stock market, demented and went off their ice pots in the orchard. Or those who acquired hypertension, angina, palsy, fatty degeneration, and anemia from getting played every game at all. Many of them would have been better off a good long time in the liver while sitting around waiting in derelict's experience of that organ by over indulgence in rich foods and inaction during later life.

B's Attendance Shows Gain Of 50,000

Red Sox Only A-L Team to Show Loss of Gate

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—Major League baseball attendance for the season just closed showed a 10 per cent increase over last year's figures, and was within striking distance of all-time records.

Semi-official compilation today by the Associated Press disclosed a grand total of 9,447,497 passed through the turnstiles of the 16 American and National League clubs.

This compared with an aggregate of 8,550,000 in 1936, thereby indicating a total increase of 8,997,497.

The all-time "high" was reached in 1918, when the total attendance for the two major circuits reached 11,000,000.

The most striking feature of this year's season is that of the 16 teams, 15 of them recorded an increase in attendance over the 1936 season.

The Philadelphia Athletics, with a total of 1,141,000, was a record for home games attendance in the major leagues.

The Boston Red Sox, which finished the season with a record of 1,000,000, was the only club in the major leagues which failed to show an increase.

Yanks Have Edge In Outfield With Di Maggio

(This is the fourth and final article on the coming World Series between New York Yankees and Giants by Joe Cashman, baseball writer of the Boston Evening American.)

By JOE CASHMAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Both the Yanks and Giants had more than their share of outfield worries during the season just closed and may run into more during the World Series.

The Yankees' outfield was a weak spot in the season just closed. By July, both were out of the lineup.

Marv Nage and Power, Tommy Henrich, started out when he was playing for the Yankees and he was a free agent.

Then Henrich got hurt by a line drive from the Yankees and he was out of the lineup.

Brouillard Eager to Box Jack Gibbons	Californian Racing Boom Expected

-By JACK CONWAY

LOU BROUILLARD, former world's welterweight and middleweight champion, has agreed to battle "Young" Jack Gibbons of St. Paul at the Garden . . . The next move is up to the Gibbons management . . .

 Young Jack, one of the famous Mike Gibbons, flashed good fighting form at Eddie Mack's Eggleston Club last winter . . . He is a boxer, and would rely upon his skill and speed to hold off Brouillard's rushes in the event the match is made.

Tommy Laird, San Francisco sports writer, dropped up to Rockingham Park to see the races and also get a peek at New Hampshire as he waited for the World Series to get under way . . . Laird told me California is all set for its biggest racing season.

7 racing season.

Mr. Boston "Bay Meadows and Tanloran will get going first," said Tommy. . . . "Then we'll have the Santa Anita meeting which will set a new high for attendance and mutual handle. . . . You may find it daffy, but I wouldn't be surprised if the daily average mutual handle at Santa Anita runs between $600,000 and $700,000. . . . The moving picture colony has plenty of money. . . . When Al Jolson, Bing Crosby and Joe E. Brown walk up to a mutual window they place plenty of dough on the line.

"I witnessed the Carnival of Champions in New York . . . The Ross-Garcia bout was the only one of the four matches worth writing home about . . . I think Garcia is a great fighter, and believe he would have beaten Ross if he had not suffered a cut over his left eye . . . Ross has started to slow down a bit, and will have a real fight on his hands any time he is obliged to oppose a fighter like Garcia."

"The Yanks will win the series . . . Haven't they got a kid from San Francisco by the name of Joe DiMaggio in their lineup? . . . Jim Coffroth is enjoying the best of health, and is as much interested in racing and boxing as ever . . . He told me to say hello to you for him."

Jimmy Johnston To Be Promoted

JIMMY JOHNSTON, who is in the midst of another year with the New York Athletic Commission, sends me word he will be a promoter now he is out as matchmaker of the New York Garden.

"I don't intend to manage any bouts," he says. "I will leave the management end of the game to my brother Charlie, who has been in the business for 20 years. I will be a promoter, and I'll do it full time."

With any opposition I may run into, "I won't be operating under restrictions as was the case when I was in the Garden," he says. "I will make what matches I wish, and I think I shall do all right. Don't feel sorry for me because I lost my job at the Garden. I still do all right, especially if Joevacchi Macomber should be elected mayor of New York City. I will say my money is on Jimmy."

Kilpatrick to Speak at Harvard

JOHN REED KILPATRICK, president of Middlesex Square Garden will be one of the speakers at the annual dinner of the Harvard-Varsity Club which will be held at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in the Dartmouth case. Kilpatrick graduated from Yale with a degree in engineering and was Ted Coy's famous team. Kilpatrick played and won a position on the late Walter LONG BEAT gave the form players a shirt and a sweater after they suffered another setback on day at Rockingham Park. The favorite and odd-on favorite have been having their troubles at the Raem, N. H., track. . . The favorite is a broodmare in a race track is by climbing aboard the favorite. . . You must pick the 5-to-1 to 7-to-1 horse that wins if you are to beat the races, but you'll have your troubles making the proper selections. . . Still like the Tanks, but not giving plenty of consideration to the Glaupe pickers. . . Still Terry's hope of victory in the World Series depends upon the work of the Glaupe pickers. . . The Glaupe pickers are the only ones winning pitchers. . . If Terry needs to prove the Tanks are not unbeatable, he should pick the Glaupe pickers.

DUROCHER TRADED TO DODGERS

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Brooklyn's Dodgers today traded four players to the Pittsburgh Pirates, second baseman Jim Bucher, third baseman Joe Stripp and pitcher Tom Seaver, and the Cardinals for two players, pitcher Steve Carlton and catcher Lumpy Davis. No cash was involved in the trade.

The deal was the first of what is expected to be one of the liveliest trading seasons in the history of the first step in the long-rumored winter shakeup of the major league baseball clubs.

The Cardinals' new first baseman, Seaver, was a star member for five seasons.

Dodgers came to the Cards in the deal for pitcher Steve Carlton, New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds. During the closing stage of the deal, the Cardinals announced that he and manager Frank Frisch could not get along and that he would be definitely on the block.

What the Cardinals now want is a pitcher to replace Seaver. Some baseball writers conjecture that the Cardinals may find Frisch would suit them.

Stripp, a lawyer man in the majors at 34, had one of his best seasons in 1964, when he won only 24 out of 34 games of his last Thursday. Durocher also announced that he would be out of the game.

Bucher batted .221 and Cooney .247 while Henrich, former Chicago White Sox, batted .247 and Shaw .250. Shaw, one of the scrums of the game, Pittsburgh Pirates, may get a shot at the position.

Minnesota's Strength

By HARRY MacNAMARA

CHICAGO Oct. 5 (News)—It was a little unexpected to discover that a 9-0 defeat by Bernie Bierman's superb football team at Minnesota State College was the most startling of the bad days in the World Series, perhaps in the nation, on Saturday.

It seems that that Minn-

The Terriers are expected to use a two-backfield system, with one backfield on offense and the other on defense.

Rum Lowry and Earle Crompton two triple threat fullbacks, have will have moved to half-back spots in the back line. The left half-back, and Crompton at left. Don Livingston will call the signals, and the full back line will be made up of George D. Hatfield.

Both back halves have plenty of experience. The left half-back unit has a pair of triple threats in Nochem and Fiammetti while the right half-back unit has the best in the league in the feat in their group.

These two groups will alternate with the right half-back unit. Fortunately the squad came out of the Lehigh game in great shape and the team will be ready for the week-end clash.

During the week-end practice, Huffing, his right hand was broken twice by the Glensboro team. He has a rheumatic and rheumatic right hand.

A Gomer who didn't play last year, but who was the first in the 1936 season to score (scored the Ash Grove team's first point) is a shrewd, slick, and a little bit of a game player.

There's a "natural" in the team.

He's always interested in World Series, but never as much as when it's the same city as when it breaks.

Smaller Cadet Corps for Game

Due to Increase In Enrollment

The Army will increase Boston for the annual West Point-Harvard football game, November 8, with only one troupe.

Capt. Edwin L. Ribert and Lt. Col. R. Rodger of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point reported last week that the Army expects approximately 9000 cadets will parade in the game, a record, whereas there were 1500 in the last trip.

Due to an increase in the size of the military, the Army will have of reserved seats still left. And that some 10000 seats will go on sale at the box office for the contest.

NEWSPAPERS

New York apparently may come slightly fed up on the greatest show, which is the annual game, which has taken time and has had some people think that six other occasions.

And certain interested parties are going to great lengths to steam up the excitement over the affair.

A great job of initiating G.I.

'Deal' Attitude Rosy Business Picture Painted

Tone of the President's Speeches Extremely Depressing

By LEWIS HANEY
(President of Economics, American Economic Association)

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The index of general business activity held about unchanged last week. As yet, it can still be said that the outlook is more than a moderate contraction of industry, and that nothing approaching a severe general slump is in sight.

About a year ago, business men began to feel that the stimulus of Federal aid was wearing off. They began to feel that the stimulus of Federal aid was wearing off. They began to feel that the stimulus of Federal aid was wearing off.

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., during the annual conference of the American Economic Association, showed the "rosy" model in the light of the present situation. The speaker, however, painted a rosy picture for the future, with no depression in sight. He said that the outlook was rosy, with no depression in sight.

Henry H. Stafford, commodity prices predicted a "rosy" future for the year ahead. He said that the outlook was rosy, with no depression in sight.

At the Babson National Business Conference, which was held in New York City, the speaker, however, painted a rosy picture for the future, with no depression in sight.

'Right Tie' Not Confidence Cited To Determine Success Here

Forbes Tells About Published Statement

By B. C. FORBES
(President of the American Economic Association)

While I was in Britain this summer, a controversy was raging in the United States as to whether or not the "right tie" was the key to success here. The speaker, however, painted a rosy picture for the future, with no depression in sight.
